

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The invention provides a method for obtaining an internet connection. The method provides for sending an internet connection request from a call center to 5 a vehicle telematics unit and for providing an IP address and server call in parameters to the vehicle telematics unit. The method also receives an internet connection at the provided IP address with the server call in parameters from the telematics unit at the call center.